Planning and scheduling

It makes good business sense to prevent losses (including financial, time, equipment, materials, and human suffering) caused by accidents. To accomplish this, carefully plan and schedule all work activities before construction begins.

Accidents may have many causes, including:

- · Lack of planning and scheduling
- Poor communication

- · Lack of or ineffective supervision
- Absence of safety rules and safe work procedures
- Lack of enforcement of safety rules and safe work procedures
- · Inadequate or ineffective worker training

A good plan is more than just a piece of paper.
